

CUTLETS FROM CONTEMPORARIES

An Odd Good-Night

In an Island of the Pacific.

The writer of "From Eastern Pacific Lands" describes a novel way two Frenchmen, living in a town in the island of Tahiti, have of saluting each other daily without stirring a step from home, though one lives in the extreme east and the other in the far west of the town.

One has a small silver trumpet, the other a Russian horn of delicate tone. Every evening, just at sundown, one of them strikes up a short prelude and commences a merry tune. Presently the other musician takes it up on his side, and soft and sweet the mingled waves of harmony, bridging the wide, float over intervening reefs and street, above the hum and bustle of the little seaport.—American Cry.

A Storm on Galliee.

Traveller's Unenviable Experience.

The Sea of Galliee is not always calm. The mountains immediately adjoining it are 2,000 feet high, and through their deep gorges the storm winds are sucked into the hollow of the lake, so that sudden squalls come literally out of a blue sky.

One charming spring morning we started out in sail from Tiberias to Capernaum (says a writer.) There was not a ripple on the water or a cloud in the heavens. But when we were a quarter of a mile from shore our boatmen noticed a band of rough water rushing toward us from the other side of the lake.

In spite of our remonstrances, they immediately gave up the plan for making Capernaum; took down sail with such frantic haste that they nearly upset the boat, and then rowed for the land with all their might, and with such excited urgency in one another that we thought them a very cowardly crew.

But hardly had the boat been beached in a sheltered cove, when the wind was howling down on us from the mountains and the heavy breakers were booming at the shore.

along the shore as far out into the lake as we could see. A quarter of an hour later the Sea of Galliee was again as level as a mirror, and only a soft, warm breeze was blowing over the smiling waters. After reading this we can appreciate more the distress of the disciples of Jesus when they were on the lake.—American Cry.

On Being Whole-Hearted.

Why the Engine Would Not Go.

Half-heart is no better than half-don't. A passenger asked the engineer, when the train stopped, whether he was short of water, and was answered, "Oh, no! There's lots of water, but it ain't bilin'!" Many lives are held back for the same reason. John made his remarks about the lack of fervor of the Lord's people sufficiently pointed to be clearly understood. Many times all that a man needs, in order to be a success in the work of God's Kingdom, is to go on doing exactly the things he is now doing, but to do them with as much fervor as he did when he first began. Instead of only with his little finger, plainest, simplest Christian lives can shine like the apostles' when they get their hearts of fire. In the records of Israel we are told that when Judah sought Jehovah "with their whole heart," he was found of them. In the service of the holy heart will be the whole heart.—Exchange.

Quiet Heroism.

An Outsider's View.

He is an Indian Adjutant. Every night the old gate is locked and he, his wife, and children are locked in with 200 people who have been the cause of society and the Police. Even when I came to the conclusion that this was an up-to-date version of Daniel and the Lion's Den—with the difference that the four have lost a great deal of their former ferocity through the thirty years.

Salvation Songs.

HOLINESS.

Tunes—"Ye Bunks and Brags,"
"Mudrid."

1 All things are possible to him
That can in Jesus' name believe.
Lord, I am more Thy truth
blaspheme.
Thy truth I lovingly receive;
I can't let it follow in Thine.
All things are possible to me.

The most impossible of all
Is that I should from sin should cease.
Yet shall it be? I know it shall;
Jesus, look to Thy faithful ones!
If nothing is too hard for Thee,
All things are possible to me.

Though earth and hell the worst guilty.
The word of God can never fail.
The Lamb shall take my sins away.

'Tis certain, though impossible:
The thing impossible shall be.
All things are possible to me.

WAR AND TESTIMONY.

Tunes—"The Gospel Ship," 128;
Glory, Glory, Jesus' Name, 127;
Song-Book, No. 831.

2 The Gospel ship along is sailing.
Bound for Canaan's peaceful shore.
All who wish to go to glory,
Come and welcome, rich and poor.

"Glory, glory, Hallelujah!"
All the sailors loudly cry;
See the blessed port of glory
Open to each faithful eye.

Thousands she has safely landed
For beyond this mortal shore;
Thousands still are sailing in her,
Yet those' own for thousands more.

Come, poor sinners, come to Jesus,
Sail with us through life's rough sea;
Then with us you shall be happy,
Happy through eternity.

SALVATION.

Tunes—"The Lion of Judah," 100;
Song-Book, 28.

3 Come, sinners, to Jesus:
No longer delay;
A free, full salvation
Is offered today.
Arise, all ye dumb-inves,
Awake from your dream!
Believe, and the light and
The glory shall stream.

The world will oppose you,
And Satan will rage;
To hinder your coming
They both will engage;
But Jesus, your Saviour,
Has promised for you,
And He will assist you
To conquer them too.

Though rough be the fighting,
And troubles arise,
There are missions of glory
Prepared in the skies;
Down and a kingdom
Is shortly shall view—
Sets of victory
Waiting for you.
